Chapter 277: The Gift of Clones

---

1. The Gift of Materialization Rings

Sung Jin-Woo, in his ever-evolving wisdom, decided to grant yet another monumental gift to his forces. He bestowed upon the Sung Clan, Apostles of God, Heavenly Soldiers, Dark Apostles, Dark Heavenly Soldiers, Shadowkins, Dragonkins, Shadow Lords, Fiery Dragon Lords, and his Centillions of Materialized Shadow Soldiers the ability to create fleshly clones of themselves.

Materialization Rings:

Each individual received a Materialization Ring, an artifact forged by Sung Jin-Woo himself.

These rings allowed them to materialize flesh-and-blood clones, indistinguishable from the original in appearance and power.

---

2. Creation of Clones

Using the Materialization Rings, all of Sung Jin-Woo’s subjects began creating clones:

Quantity of Clones:

Some, cautious and focused, created only one clone.

Others, driven by ambition, crafted three or even a dozen clones.

Each clone was tailored to the creator's purpose, reflecting their unique personality and goals.

Power of Clones:

The power of each clone was determined by its creator, proportional to their original strength.

These clones were highly durable and capable of independent thought while maintaining a mental link with their original.

---

3. Purpose of the Clones

The clones were created with the intention of embarking on journeys across the multiverse:

Exploration and Knowledge:

The clones explored uncharted realms, gathering knowledge, resources, and wisdom.

Spreading Influence:

They served as ambassadors, spreading the ideals of their creators and Sung Jin-Woo's vision.

Defending the Multiverse:

Some clones were deployed as protectors, safeguarding vulnerable worlds from threats.

Expanding Realms:

Many clones established outposts, kingdoms, and cities, creating strongholds in distant corners of the multiverse.

---

4. Diversity of Clones' Missions

The clones undertook diverse and unique missions based on their creators:

Sung Clan Members:

Their clones established noble dynasties, advancing diplomacy and forging alliances across realms.

Apostles of God:

Their clones acted as divine emissaries, spreading enlightenment and guiding civilizations toward prosperity.

Dark Apostles and Dark Heavenly Soldiers:

Their clones delved into the shadows, investigating threats and neutralizing enemies with precision.

Shadowkins and Shadow Lords:

Their clones infiltrated hostile realms, gathering intelligence and ensuring the safety of their domains.

Dragonkins and Fiery Dragon Lords:

Their clones claimed uncharted skies and lands, establishing draconic strongholds and dominating vast territories.

Materialized Shadow Soldiers:

Given their sheer numbers, their clones flooded the multiverse, bringing stability and order to chaotic regions.

---

5. Sung Jin-Woo’s Oversight

From his Umbra Citadel, Sung Jin-Woo monitored the progress of these clones with great interest.

Mental Link:

The clones maintained a constant link to their creators, ensuring loyalty and synchronization.

Through this link, Sung Jin-Woo could observe the multiverse’s vast expanse and ensure his subjects’ growth aligned with his grand plan.

Harmony and Balance:

To prevent chaos, Sung Jin-Woo implemented a system to ensure that the power and activities of the clones remained balanced and constructive.

---

6. An Era of Expansion

The creation of clones marked the beginning of an era of unprecedented expansion for Sung Jin-Woo’s forces:

Multiverse-Wide Presence:

With clones dispersed throughout the multiverse, Sung Jin-Woo’s influence touched every corner of existence.

Unified Vision:

Despite their vast numbers and diverse purposes, all clones operated under the unified vision of Sung Jin-Woo’s divine order.

Conclusion

The gift of Materialization Rings and the ability to create clones further cemented Sung Jin-Woo’s forces as an unstoppable and omnipresent power. As these clones ventured into the unknown, they carried with them the legacy of their creators and the indomitable will of Sung Jin-Woo, shaping the multiverse in ways never before imagined.